11. Plagiarism & Academic Integrity

What is plagiarism?

Plagiarism is presenting someone else's thoughts or work as your own. It can take many forms, from not having appropriate academic referencing to deliberate cheating.

UNSW groups plagiarism into the following categories:

Using the internet appropriately

A first year student handed in an assignment where she had copied from a website. Her lecturer realised she didn't understand you have to reference websites in the same way you reference books and journal articles. The lecturer explained how to reference and sent her to a workshop at the Learning Centre to help her improve her skills.

13. Special Consideration

If you find that unexpected short-term illness, misadventure, or other circumstances beyond your control impact your ability to attend compulsory laboratory classes, significantly impacts your performance in assessable work, and/or prevents you from completing a course requirement on time, you can apply for Special Consideration.

Students enrolled in a School of Psychology course should make a Special Consideration application regarding an assessment task regardless of the weighting given to this assessment task. Note that applications for Special Consideration will not be considered unless there is evidence of these circumstances lasting for more than three consecutive days or a total of five days or more within the teaching period.

An application for Special Consideration together with supporting documentation should be submitted as soon as the problem occurs or at the latest within 3 working days of the assessment or the period covered by the supporting documentation. Failure to do so will result in your application being rejected.

All applications must be made via Online Services in myUNSW. Log into myUNSW and go to My Student Profile tab > My Student Services > Online Services > Special Consideration. You must submit the supporting documentation to Student Central for verification within 3 working days of the assessment or the period covered by the supporting documentation. If your application is on the grounds of unexpected short-term illness, the original documents should include a Professional Authority form which has been completed by a medical practitioner. For further information and to download the Professional Authority form, go to:
