That the first term began (ANNEX 1) as finally pned n 1908

As from 1908 under the terms of the Higher Education Act, 1908 no ANU was declared a college advanced education within the Department Education, NSW Government Gazette, no 10 August 1908 Calendar, SA Annual Report, 1908, however, did not alter its main function as a single purpose teacher education college.

During the period of the Higher Education Act, 1908 became the tri-disciplinary ANU was declared on 1 August 1911 the Ministry of Education and incorporated on 1 October, SA Annual Report 1911-12

In the tri-disciplinary Alexander Mackenzie College Advanced Education ANNEX 1 had in place two schools, Art and Education, bringing several degree and award courses. Towards the end of the 1920s, new courses in the field of General and City Studies were introduced. These changes led to two very important and significant developments in the evolution that was to become ANU. First, it gave impetus to the development of award courses in visual arts and higher award courses in art education. Second, it led to the teaching facilities crisis which prompted the establishment of the Glenaymer Campus, the Schollacher Education and later the St George Institute Education, Brnes and others in 1968.

Legislation as its governing body. The Act authorised the Council to delegate its powers to individuals or committees within the College. It constituted the following committees:

- Executive Committee
- Buildings, Goods and Finance Committee
- Education Committee
- Personnel Committee
- College-City Committee
- Awards Committee
- Academic Board

The Council also authorised its various committees to delegate their functions and authorities to sub-committees. The Academic Board had the following
